AMERICAN ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF SCIENCE. This association dates its origin to 1840, when on the 2d of April of that year, some eighteen gentlemen, principally connected with the several State Geological Surveys then in progress, met in Philadelphia and organized under the name of "The Association of American Geologists." At the meeting in Boston in 1842, it was decided to enlarge the object so as to include the collateral branches and the name to that of "The Association of American Geologists and Naturalists." In 1847 the objects were still further enlarged so as to include all departments of science. A new organization was effected under the present name, and the first meeting was held at Philadelphia, Sept. 20, 1848. This association is republican in its organization and migratory in its visits, meetings having been held in various cities of the Union and Canada annually except during the years 1861-1865, when they were suspended in consequence of the unsettled condition of the country. A volume of proceedings has been printed for each of these meetings. The office of the permanent secretary is over the Mercantile Bank, Central st, Salem. PEABODY ACADEMY OF SCIENCE; This institution was founded by George Peabody, who, on the 26th of February, 1867, placed in the hands of nine trustees the sum of $140,000, for the promotion of science and useful knowledge in the County of Essex. He directed $40,000 to be applied to the purchase of the East India Marine Hall, in Salem, and other lands adjoining thereto; the fitting up and furnishing the same for the proper arrangement of the Museum of the East India Marine Society, and the scientific collections of the Essex Institute, conditional agreements having been previously made by the two institutions to place them therein on special permanent deposit. The remaining sum of $100,000 is invested as a permanent fund, the income only of which can be used for the purpose of the trust. The various alterations having been completed in August, 1869, Wednesday, the 18th of that month, the first day of the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, in Salem, was taken to dedicate the Museum to the uses for which it was designed by the founder. The collection of the East India Marine Society, which is especially rich in the native implements of the Pacific islands, and in specimens illustrating the costumes and habits of the inhabitants of various countries in the East Indies, and the Essex County collections of the Institute, are its marked features, and the many additions that have since been made contribute largely to its value and interest. The Museum is open to the public every day (Sundays excepted), from 9 A. M. to noon, and from 1 to 5 P. M. The Academy has printed six of its annual and five memoirs. "The American Naturalist," vols. 2 to 10 were also printed under its auspices. SALEM ATHENÆUM was incorporated in March, 1810. Its conception was suggested by the Boston athenæum, organized some three years earlier. The characters of the two institutions are in many respects similar, the leading objects of both being the promotion of literature, the arts and sciences. The founders of the Salem athenæum were actuated by high motives and laid a broad basis for future operations, commencing at first with a library, and trusting to the future for the further extension of their views and plans. To this end they purchased the social and philosophical libraries. The former was organized in 1761; the latter in 1781. The athenæum rooms in Central building, Market (now Central) street were opened to the proprietors on Wednesday, July 11, 1810, with a goodly collection of books upon the shelves, duly arranged and properly classified. In April, 1815, the library was removed to rooms in Essex place; in 1825 to rooms over the Salem bank; in 1841 to Lawrence place, and in 1857 to Plummer hall, the present resting place for this valuable and increasing collection of books. The present number of volumes, about 19,500. Miss Caroline Plummer, daughter of Dr. Joshua and Olive (Lyman) Plummer, born Jan. 13, 1780, and died at Salem, May 15, 1854, bequeathed to the proprietors of the athenæum $30,000, for the purchasing of land and the erecting thereon a building known as Plummer hall, in which are deposited the libraries of the Salem Athenæum, Essex Institute, Essex So. District Medical, and Essex Agricultural Societies. Officers of the athenæum elected May, 1882. Trustees, William Mack, William S. Messervy, Henry Wheatland, William P. Upham, Frederick W. THE SALEM FRATERNITY. On the 7th of February, 1869, Mr. Alfred Stone, of Providence, formerly a resident of Salem, by invitation addressed a meeting at the East Church explaining the working of the Providence Union. The next evening a few persons came together in the parlors of Benjamin H. Silsbee, Esq., to confer upon the matter further. Other meetings followed at the same place and resulted in the formation of the Salem Fraternity, object "to provide evening instruction and amusement" for such of our population as "being confined to their work during the day need recreation at the close of their labors." On the evening of the 21st of April, 1869, the western range of rooms on the second floor of Downing's Block, 175 Essex st., was opened for the purpose from front to rear. The place was well chosen, central, accessible, attractive in its principal rooms, while the thoroughfare of the Essex st. promenaders led directly past its door. The Amusement Room.—The numbers in attendance fluctuates with the season and with the attractions outside. In the warm weather and short evenings a few only will appear. During the long winter evenings, especially if cold and stormy, this comfortable room is much prized. The average attendance in 1875 was 200, in 1876 was 230. The average of July 1876 was 85, December of the same year 481. The Library.—It began with a few shelves of books, miscellaneous and unselected, in a small back-room. There are now 4221 volumes in the library; 500 for reference only. The takers of books number 1107. This library has been gathered by gift wholly. It is the only free public library in Salem. Its large number of readers shows an active circulation. The Reading Room is supplied with the Salem papers by the favor of the publishers, and from some of their offices come, besides, many of their most desirable exchanges; several daily and weekly newspapers, pictorial weeklies, religious, scientific, and literary periodicals, find their way to the tables at a very small outlay of money. Seven Magazines and twenty-eight papers are regularly received. Women's Room.—On the first of Jan., 1879, a room was set apart for women to meet in for reading, conversation and possibly for industrial instruction, and for an employment reference room. In 1875 the Fraternity became incorporated under the Statutes of Massachusetts. School Room. In this room which is small and inconvenient, a few scholars still attend irregularly; an average of perhaps four in the winter. Teachers are provided for those who come. Officers for the year, 1882-3,—President, Henry Wheatland; Treasurer, William Northey; Secretary, John R. Lakeman; Directors, Henry Wheatland, Otis P. Lord, William D.
